Shoulder Straps To Frank Baldwin Now

Plantation Manager To Be Regimental Commissary Officer—Much Being Done To Make Guard Effective.

Within another week or ten days the Wailuku Armory will be probably the best equipped of any armory in the territory, except the national guard armory in Honolulu. Through the cooperation of the Wailuku Sugar Company, the local armory has been extended in length by 25 feet, and this additional space will provide two company rooms, with lockers, showers, etc., besides two officers' rooms. The cost of the improvements, which will be borne by the local sugar company, will be between $400 and $500.

Target Practice Soon.

The new rifle ranges being constructed in the sand hills between Wailuku and Kahului for the central Maui companies, will soon be finished. In fact the 200-yard and the 600-yard ranges are finished now. The targets were received this week, by Capt. Penhallow, regimental quartermaster. These ranges are being built on land of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company, and at the expense of the company.

At Lahaina the Pioneer Mill Company is also constructing ranges for the Lahaina company, and Manager Weinheimer has also indicated that he will probably create an extensive parade ground for the local soldiers.

It's "Captain" Frank Baldwin Now.

F. E. Baldwin, manager of the H. C. & S. Company, has accepted the appointment of regimental commissary officer, of the Third Regiment, N. G. H., with the rank of captain. This is a staff position. Only one other appointment is still to be made to fill the staff—that of ordinance officer. The other members of Col. H. A. Baldwin's staff are: A. W. Collins, adjutant, and H. B. Penhallow, quartermaster.
